About this boat

The Colvic Victor 41 (1982) is a robust centre-cockpit cruising yacht, designed by John Bennett and renowned for her seaworthiness and comfortable accommodation. She combines strength with practicality, making her well-suited for extended passagemaking or liveaboard use. Built in GRP with teak in the cockpit and a timber superstructure, she has benefited from continual maintenance, including a recent osmosis treatment in 2022 and antifouling in 2023. Her rig is a sloop with aluminium spars and a full suit of sails, including slab-reefing mainsail, roller-furling genoa and storm jib. The fixed bowsprit was extended in 2025, and her running rigging has been regularly updated. A Yanmar 4JH5E 53HP engine (installed...
