About this boat

This 1991 Moody 35 is a well-proven British centre-cockpit cruiser, built by Marine Projects and renowned for her solid GRP construction, safe handling and comfortable accommodation. Featuring a fin keel, blade rudder and wheel steering, she offers reassuring performance under sail, supported by aluminium spars and wire standing rigging replaced approximately four years ago. Powered by a Beta 35hp diesel engine with around 700 hours, she provides reliable and economical cruising. Tankage includes approximately 90 litres of fuel, 180 litres of fresh water across two tanks, and a grey water tank, with two solar panels and a wind vane supporting extended time afloat. Sail handling is straightforward with a slab-re...
